Changes include updating various cross-references to State and federal law; updating program objectives to define needs of “recent origin” as those which have arisen within the past 18 months; and allowing private development costs to be paid for with CDBG grant funds, rather than limiting those funds to cover only public infrastructure costs supporting job creation or retention. Those affected by this rulemaking include CDBG non-entitlement units of local government (those with populations under 50,000 for a city or 500,000 for a county).
