local government. Third Reading of this Senate Bill."

Speaker Lang: "Mr. Beiser."

Beiser: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Members of the Body. Senate Bill 49... 499 is an initiative of our local port district, formerly called the Tri-City Regional Port District, and it does four things. It increases the boundaries of the district; it renames it the America's Central Port; it gives the district authority to acquire, build and operate facilities such as museums, sports facility buildings, to be used as factories, mill shops, and the like, like other port districts; and allows the district to obtain loans from financial institutions that are paid back within 20 years rather than the currently authorized 3 years and allows the district to incorporate subsidiaries to own and operate the district's facilities to operate them. Be happy to answer any questions."

Sullivan: "Will the speaker yield?"

Speaker Lang: "Sponsor yields."

Sullivan: "So, Representative, couple things dealing with the ability to borrow money. Can you explain the rationale behind expanding the time to borrow money from 3 years to 20 years?"

Beiser: "Yes. And when they go out now to borrow money, if they want to borrow money, you know, of any subs... substance, extending it for longer than a three-year period would make that ability come true. Right now, a three-year period is just really pushing them into a situation where they... they, you know, couldn't borrow a tremendous amount of money if they have a project that would need such."

Sullivan: "Okay. Are they... is this all bondable money or is..."

Beiser: "I'm sorry?"

Sullivan: "...any state... There... there's no state money involved with this, though. This is their ability..."

Beiser: "Yes."

Sullivan: "...under their assets to go out and borrow money, but just expanding it to 20 years."

Beiser: "Yes. It's taking..."

Sullivan: "Lower rates and so forth."

Beiser: "Yes."

Sullivan: "Okay. That's all I needed to know."

Beiser: "Thank you."

Sullivan: "So... but it's your intent... it's your belief that there's no general obligation to borrow any state money..."

Beiser: "Absolutely not. No."

Sullivan: "...that's about it. Great. Thank you."

Senate Bill 506 simply seeks to set up a process in which, when the elected county coroner or appointed county coroner of the county has a inherent conflict and is believed to not be able to conduct a death investigation in fair and in partial manner, that those duties would be shifted to either the deputy coroner or other law enforcement, if the deputy coroner is not available to do so. is that anyone who has an EPPICard should not be charged a user fee at all from any ATM? Or only an ATM in the network that gave them the card?"

Smith: "Yes."

Franks: "Which one is it? I'm not sure."

Smith: "They shouldn't be charged any fees when using a card."

Franks: "But what happens if they use a bank that's not affiliated? Wouldn't they be then be getting a service that other people are paying for? Why should they get a free service?"

Smith: "Well, in certain areas, where you... we have individuals that use this card, they don't have the particular banks that would... that they are... that normally they would have to go to in certain areas and the rural areas like Kankakee and areas like that."

Franks: "I'm just not sure I understand this because in the analysis, it says ATM operators may assess EPPICard users a surcharge, but you're telling me they can't. And that's what I'm confused on."

Smith: "Well, the EPPICards, you know, its... its sole purpose is for to receive a child sup... payments and some of the individuals that utilize these cards does not even have a bank account. And in certain situations, they're... they don't have the opportunity to say hey, no, I would prefer a paper check instead."
